A Brief Introduction...

Originally I was going to come up with some very clever point for this book...all about labeling ourselves and relying too much on the trappings of pop-Christian culture for our identity - I thought it might help if any of my Christian brethren took offense to some of the cartoons.

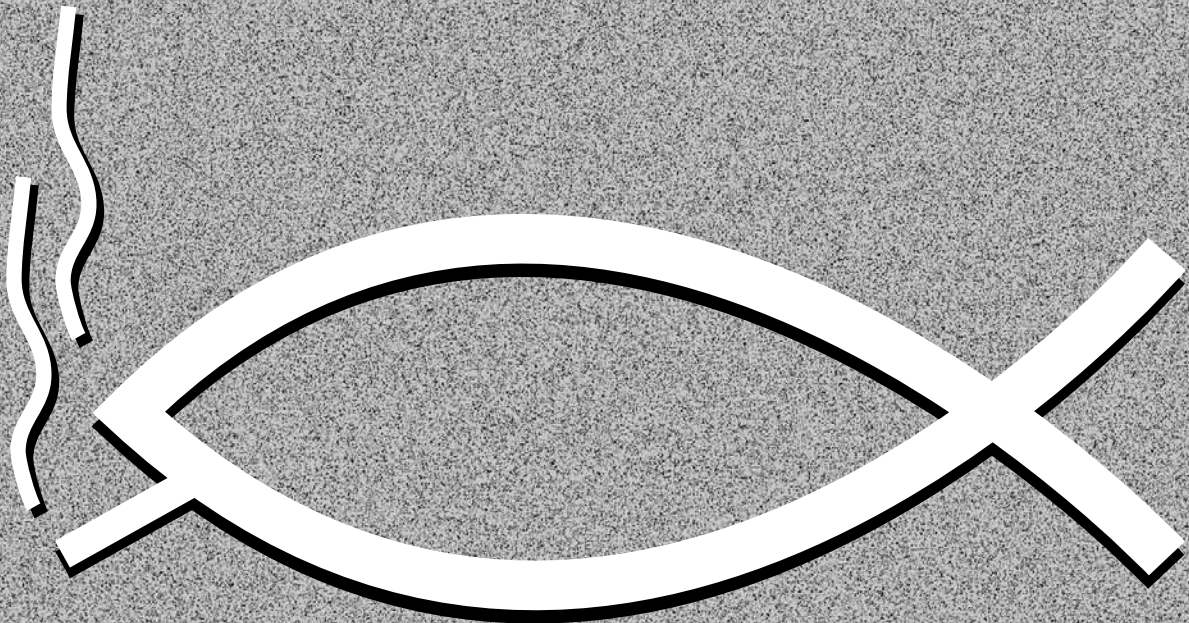

Then I thought I should just be honest. I wrote this book because I thought it was funny. As for challenging or enlightening anyone, I can always hope. Probably most people will be able to laugh at themselves if they see anything familiar. For those upset, sorry.
